

2021 DIVERSITY CONFERENCE & AWARDS

DECEMBER 9, 2021

The 2021 Diversity Conference aims to deepen awareness and engagement around equity and inclusion efforts, both in the legal industry and society. Panel discussions will explore allyship, and how to actively utilize privilege to create a culture of inclusion within law firms and organizations—including how to move beyond performative diversity. We will also focus on today's most pressing social justice topics. This year's full day conference will include multiple thought-provoking panels on these topics, a fireside chat with prominent guest speakers and a reception to follow.

This roundtable panel will feature leaders in law firms and companies that have demonstrated an authentic commitment to diversity, and have made significant efforts to promote diversity and inclusion in their organizations. The panel will discuss how to move beyond “performative” diversity to achieve meaningful organizational change.

Topics

- What is performative diversity and how it can serve to conceal systemic and institutional racism and other barriers to real and substantive change within companies, law firms and the legal industry as a whole
- Common problem areas within the legal industry and methods for identifying them in your firm/ company’s culture
- Real examples of DEI strategies that have worked (and not worked) within law firms/organizations
- Substantive and tangible strategies/steps to take to advance long-term organizational change, including recruitment, retention, promotion strategies and policies
- Best practices to continue the fight for diversity, equity, and inclusion, while also acknowledging there may be ‘diversity fatigue’

Disrupting Societal Microaggressions Interactive Workshop

Steven Huang

Founder, Millennial HR Design

Microaggressions remain one of the top reported challenges experienced by marginalized and underrepresented talent in the workplace. While often neutral or well-intentioned, it's an important skill to identify what a microaggression is, break down their hidden messages of bias, and offer up a basic framework for how to address them when you see or experience them. This interactive workshop starts by contextualizing how stereotypes are created and reinforced over time to illustrate which stereotypes they reinforce and the message they send to recipients. In helping participants understand how they are perpetuated, we provide the antidote: micro-inclusions. Understanding how to employ micro-inclusions to crowd out microaggressions gives us a framework to break the cycle of "death by a thousand papercuts."

Millennial HR Design is a DEI consultancy that seeks to inspire a generation of leaders to interrogate systems of oppression, learn inclusive management practices, and wield privilege to create positive change.
