Under the Trump Administration, the U.S. E.P.A. adopted new rules affecting federal and state waters, including wetlands. California regulators responded by filling a perceived environmental protection gap. These regulatory changes continue with the Biden Administration announcing an upcoming revised definition of “waters of the United States” and section 401 certification regulations under the Clean Water Act.

Topics

- Clean Water Act basics
- Nuts and bolts of wetlands permitting
- Recent changes in federal and state regulatory requirements
- Landmark cases affecting permitting requirements
