This panel will explore the privacy implications of surveillance measures to fight pandemics, including how to obtain meaningful, revocable consent and how to safeguard such data from misuse

Topics

- What are the immediate needs of local government in times of crisis in terms of finding medical solutions and stopping the spread?
- What concerns about surveillance arise from contact tracing?
- Can information be collected and accessed securely and then
- How are platforms and programs being designed to collect information necessary to stop the spread and fight the disease?
- What are reasonable solutions that balance these competing interests in this pandemic?
