Session I
Careers in Labor and Employment Law

Labor and employment law is an expanding field encompassing diverse matters including traditional areas like sexual harassment, employment discrimination, leaves of absence, wage and hour, unionization, and privacy, as well as current topics such as gig workers, social media, and COVID-19. Are you interested in the field? Find out what practitioners from law firms, government agencies, non-profits, and corporations do on a day-to-day basis, how they got to where they are, and their perspectives on hiring.

Session II
Careers in Environmental Law

The field of environmental law is expansive; it touches all of the elements: air, water, and land. A practitioner in this area may be involved with air quality permitting, litigation to clean up contaminated groundwater, or the regulatory process to approve major construction. Are you interested in learning what a career in environmental law might look like? Find out what an environmental attorney's work looks like on a day-to-day basis, how they got involved in the field. Importantly, find out what the emerging trends are, where the work is, and get perspectives on what employers are looking for.

Panelists
Arielle Harris, Miller Starr Regalia

Leah Goldberg, Port of Oakland

James Arnold, The Arnold Law Practice

Rich Campbell, US EPA – Region 9
